ORDER RE: PENDING
DISCOVERY MOTIONS

BEFORE THE COURT are numerous pending discovery motions including motions for protective order and competing motions to compel. See Craven, 04-243 (Ct. Rec. 91, 97, 99, and 101); Fitzpatrick, 04-3123 (Ct. Rec. 45, 49, and 51); and Weaver, 04-3075 (Ct. Rec. 87, 97, 106). The court has reviewed the numerous briefs and lengthy declarations and attachments.

Counsel were advised by the court at both the scheduling conference and at the 1 initial discovery conference on January 20, 2005 as to the court's views on discovery.

2 Counsel were additionally instructed in the court's scheduling order to comply with the 3 "spirit of open discovery" and that "the court views Rule 26 liberally and the parties have 4 an obligation to disclose the good and the bad and observe an 'open file' policy with the 5 exception of privileged materials". The court finds that Defendant Weckworth has failed 6 to comply with the court's mandate.

7 Accordingly,

8 IT IS HEREBY ORDERED:

9 1. The Plaintiffs in each of the three cases filed a motion for protective order 10 regarding post-mortem images (Ct. Rec. 91-CV-04-243; Ct. Rec. 45 - CV-04-3123; and 11 Ct. Rec. 87-CV-04-3075). The parties reached a stipulated agreement on this issue and 12 the court issued an order reflecting such. That protective order now being in effect, the 13 three motions are denied as moot.

14 2. The next issue concerns Defendant Weckworth's Motion for Protective Order 15 filed in each of the three cases (Ct. Rec. 97-CV-04-243; Ct. Rec. 49-CV-04-3123; and Ct.
16 Rec. 97-CV-04-3075). Weckworth seeks a protective order prohibiting discovery on the 17 following topics: 1) Weckworth's sales to entities other than the United States 18 Government (commercial consumers); 2) fire shelters assembled after the Thirty Mile 19 Fire of July 10, 2001; and 3) the "New Generation" fire shelter that Weckworth began 20 selling in March 2003. All three Weckworth motions for protective order are hereby 21 DENIED to the extent set forth herein.

22 3. Weckworth's Motions for Protective order were met by Plaintiffs' corresponding 23 motions to compel (Ct. Rec. 99 & 101 - CV-04-243; Ct. Rec. 51-CV-04-3123) and the 24 Weaver plaintiffs joinder in those motions (Ct. Rec. 100-CV-04-3075). Accordingly, the 25 Plaintiffs' motions to compel are GRANTED to the extent set forth herein.

26 4. The dispute over Weckworth's sales to commercial consumers centers on 27 whether such records are relevant or may lead to the discovery of admissible evidence.
28 The court finds such records are relevant to the government contracts specifications

1 defense. Therefore, Weckworth shall fully answer all interrogatories requesting the dates
2 upon which Weckworth sold fire shelters to commercial customers, who Weckworth sold
3 fire shelters to, and how many fire shelters Weckworth has sold to commerical customers.
4 Weckworth shall provide Plaintiffs with all warnings and instructions supplied to 5 commercial customers over the last ten years. If the warnings have not changed 6 throughout the years, or have always mirrored the government instructions, this should be 7 an exceedingly simple request. Lastly, Weckworth, pursuant to the Craven Plaintiff's 8 deposition notice, shall designate and produce for deposition the person(s) who could 9 best testify about the various aspects (specified above) of Weckworth's commercial sales.

10 5. The dispute over discovery post-July 2001, centers on both the relevance and 11 admissibility of evidence of subsequent remedial measures. Whether a document or other 12 evidence is discoverable or admissible are distinct concepts. Even if evidence of design 13 change or changes to the warnings/instructions or evidence of the advent of the "New 14 Generation" fire shelter is eventually deemed inadmissible, that does not mean that such 15 information is not discoverable. Such information is relevant to the issues in these cases.
16 Defendant Weckworth shall produce discovery as to all changes in the design, 17 manufacture, production, labeling, instructions, component parts and or other materials of 18 fire shelters produced and/or delivered to the United States Forest Service from July 2001
19 through 2003 when the "New Generation" shelter began production. Additionally, 20 Weckworth shall produce discovery regarding how the "New Generation" shelter differs 21 from the prior fire shelters sold to the United States Forest Service.

22 6. Plaintiffs in the Weaver, 04-3075, case have additionally filed a Motion to 23 Compel regarding the specificity of answers to interrogatories provided by Defendant
24 Weckworth. (Ct. Rec. 106, CV-04-3075). Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 33(d) gives a 25 party the option to produce business records in response to an interrogatory. In so doing, 26 a party shall "specify the records from which the answer may be derived or ascertained".
27 The Rule goes further to state that a specification "shall be in sufficient detail to permit 28 the interrogating party to locate and identify, as readily as can the party served, the

1 records from which the answer may be ascertained." All discovery in these three related 2 cases is being produced and scanned into an electronic database in Seattle, Washington.
3 Each document is then given a "T-Scan" number. The Weaver Plaintiffs requested that, 4 because Weckworth has produced over 9,000 documents, it reference a T-Scan number if 5 it invokes the option to produce business records under Rule 33(d). Defendant has 6 refused to so provide.

7 Plaintiffs particularly object to responses such as: "Weckworth responds that its 8 only knowledge ... may be contained in the documents generated to it by the Federal 9 Government"; "contained in the USDA Forest Service's investigation report . . . and 10 accompanying materials"; "plaintiffs have copies of these documents so [Weckworth]
11 will not reproduce them"; and "Weckworth has produced documents responsive to this 12 request in accordance with the parties' agreements to scan and exchange documents".

13 Defendant Weckworth, in its responsive brief, suggests that Plaintiffs don't want to 14 do their own work, that the court is limited to considering only the 4 deficient responses
15 set forth in the body of Plaintiff's motion to compel, and that "[i]f Plaintiff wanted a 16 different response, it should have asked a different question"(Ct. Rec. 120, p. 7). The 17 court takes issue with all three assertions. It is evident from a review of the briefing and 18 the discovery submitted that Defendant Weckworth is not complying with the spirit of 19 open discovery. Additionally, this court is not limited to consideration of the four 20 interrogatories set forth in the motion. Plaintiff submitted a declaration in support of the 21 motion to compel with an appendix of approximately 20 responses that Plaintiff felt were 22 insufficient. (See Ct. Rec. 107-2, CV-04-3075). The court approves of the manner in 23 which the motion to compel, declaration, and portion of discovery at issue were 24 submitted. Plaintiff need not submit all 132 interrogatories that were posed, as the court 25 need not be further inundated by the continuous discovery disputes in this matter.

26 Many of Defendant Weckworth's responses have failed "to specify the records 27 from which the answer may be derived or ascertained" as required by Rule 33.

28 Defendant Weckworth shall identify business records referred to by their T-Scan

1 number or answer the interrogatory as provided in Rule 33(b). If Defendant
2 Weckworth wishes to refer Plaintiff to a specific report, it may do so by identifying the 3 report and the T-Scan number for the first page of the report. If Defendant Weckworth
4 wants to refer Plaintiff to "accompanying materials" it shall specify those materials by the 5 T-Scan number.

6 7. All Counsel are cautioned that the court will not tolerate evasive and 7 uncooperative responses to interrogatories. The court does not approve of 'blanket 8 objections' such as vague, overbroad, unduly burdensome etc.. By way of example, the 9 Fitzpatrick Plaintiff's posed interrogatory 19 to Defendant Weckworth:

10 "When did you first sell or transfer a fire shelter to a person or entity other than the 11 federal government?" (taken from Ct. Rec. 51, CV-04-3123), to which the response was, 12 in part: "overbroad, vague, unduly burdensome, and not limited in time and scope." This 13 type of response is UNACCEPTABLE. All this question asked for was a simple 14 response in the form of - - "Weckworth first began selling to commercial consumers in __ 15 month, 199__". Instead, Weckworth refused to answer the interrogatory, but then 16 represented to this court that it did not sell to any commercial consumers until after 17 receiving its contract with GSA in 1995. All parties need to cooperatively respond 18 during the discovery process, rather than waiting until a motion to compel is pending and 19 then make assertions in the briefs.

20 Any further evasion and lack of cooperation in the discovery process will be 21 met with appropriate sanctions.

22 8. The court expects that the parties will work cooperatively in the future and the 23 court will not be called upon to referee future disputes. However, should such need arise, 24 all parties when submitting declarations, including exhibits and attachments, over 25 50 pages must submit to the Clerk's office a courtesy paper copy that is clearly
26 marked "Judge's Courtesy Copy of Electronic Filing". Please make note of this 27 requirement as it is a modification of the district's administrative procedures for 28 electronic case filing.

IT IS SO ORDERED. The Clerk is hereby directed to enter this Order in the above three cases and furnish copies to counsel.

DATED this 25th day of July, 2005.
